1.2 Introduction

Introduction

Do you use programs that have ugly AppIcons? Do you want to have a program to have another AppIcon image, but you can't change it?

Well, here's the final solution for all these problems.

With NewAppIcon, you can change every AppIcon to meet your dreams! Replace those awful built-in AppIcons with your preferred ones!

1.3 Usage

Usage

NewAppIcon can only be started from the Shell (preferably from s:Startup-Sequence right after SetPatch).

Template: NewAppIcon CONFIG=-c/K,SNOOP=-s/S

You should run NewAppIcon with "Run >NIL: <NIL:".

Parameters:

CONFIG - You can specify a path to your preferred configuration file here. If you omit this parameter, NewAppIcon will open the file ENV:NewAppIcon.cfg. See the supplied configuration file for details.

SNOOP - This option turns the snoop mode on. Whenever a program wants to add an AppIcon to the Workbench, you will be prompted with a requester showing the icon title and the task name. This is useful if you want to add entries to your configuration file.

You can remove all NewAppIcon patches safely by sending a CTRL+C to its task.

NewAppIcon won't eat up any CPU time until AppIcons are added or removed to the Workbench!
