Most information useful for users is located in the printed user release notes. Additional notes that are relevant to both end-users and developers are listed here.

Sound.app Can Crash Workspace Manager

Sound.app has a bug that can cause Workspace Manager to crash. If Sound.app is the default application for a sound file, and you double-click that file, Sound.app will start with an apparently blank sound (the title bar will show ^aUntitled^o). If you then drag the icon for the sound file from Sound.app's file well over the file viewer, Workspace Manager will report an error and you'll be automatically logged out.
