

Grouping Objects

Once you have created or imported several graphics in a Layout Board window, and have arranged them the way you want them, you can create a group by choosing Group (command-g) from the Layering submenu of the Layout menu. The several selected graphics will then become one object, which makes it easier to move and place on the page. Groups can be further grouped, creating a group of groups.

Ungroup (command-G) from the Layering submenu ungroups the top level of a group, leaving sub-groups still grouped.

Group objects can be resized and edited (the individual items are changed).

Remember that the TextArt Image Display Window can only edit a single TextArt image, so if you command-click or double-click on a grouped object, only the first TextArt graphic in the group will be brought to the Image Display window.

TextArt: The Manual:

Grouping

p. 61