

Today's educators are eager to use the latest learning technologies with their students. Now Apple makes that easier—and less expensive—to do.

With the Apple Education Series, we offer something unique—a full suite of kits that contain not only high-quality, Year 2000-compliant software, but also teacher support materials that make successful integration more effective. Why do our kits work so well? Because we involve educators in every step—from selecting software to developing the curriculum.

The following pages contain overviews of the kits. Individual kit descriptions, with more complete product information, are also available.

Kit Features

High-Quality Software

Software in the kits comes from leading educational developers and meets current curriculum standards. Motivating and rich in multimedia, the software supports collaborative learning and promotes problem solving and authentic learning.

Teacher Support Materials

In addition to installation and getting started information, most kits contain model lessons mapped to curriculum standards, tips on assessment, suggestions for promoting the home-school connection, and classroom management strategies. Most kits also contain software user guides.

Staff Development

Kit-specific training is also available for some kits. Based on the Apple Staff Development model, these two-day sessions use the Unit of Practice approach to teaching effective use of the kit.

Internet Resources

All kits include Out of the Box and Onto the 'Net. This booklet discusses teaching and learning ideas and describes the features of the Mac OS needed to use the Internet right out of the box. (Modem and Internet account required.)

How to Order

- Select the Featured Solution, which includes a computer and a kit. Or choose one of the other computer options and order the computer and the kit separately.
- When you purchase a computer and one Apple Education Series kit, you can also purchase up to two other kits. Except where noted, individual kits can be purchased only with a computer.
- Purchase everything at once. The computer and up to three different kits must all appear on the same purchase order.

Featured Solution

This includes the Apple Education Series kit of your choice, along with a 233-MHz Power Macintosh G3 all-in-one computer, except where noted. It's a convenient way to order the combination using a single part number. The Power Macintosh G3 all-in-one computer includes a 233-MHz processor, 512K backside level 2 cache, 32MB SDRAM, 4GB IDE hard disk drive, built-in multiple-scan, tilt-and-swivel color display (13.8-in. diagonal viewable image size), 24x-speed (maximum) CD-ROM drive, built-in 10BASE-T Ethernet connector (10 Mbps), audio input/output, and more.

Other Options

Additional Computer Options

You can substitute other qualified computers, including the all new iMac, the 266-MHz Power Macintosh G3 all-in-one, Power Macintosh G3 desktop, Power Macintosh G3 minitower, and selected Macintosh PowerBook 1400 series computers with CD-ROM.

Financing Options

You can finance software, training, and support, as well as hardware, with the Apple Education Finance Program. To learn more about this program created exclusively for education, call 1-800-255-2652 or visit our web site at www.applemax.com.

Extended Service

You can protect your school's computer investment by purchasing selected Apple products with extended warranty service coverage under the Education Extended Service Program.

Technical Support

Apple offers "up-and-running" assistance, including help with setup, compatibility, configuration, and hardware and software troubleshooting.
