

t

Mouse Techniques^{163}

This table summarizes the effects of mouse actions on various components of the Application editor, assuming that Cmd-click to create Prograph objects in the Options dialog has been checked (this is the default setting).^{163}

Action

^{164}

Double-click on an element...^{164}

o in Application editor on an instance name...

Result

...opens the corresponding editor modal window

o in a Window Item image...

Result

...opens the Specification editor for that class of window item if its class has already been chosen; otherwise opens the Window Item Specification editor

Option-double-click ...^{164}

o in a Window Item image...

Result

...opens the Window Item Specification editor, allowing you to change the class of the window item

Command-drag in space...^{164}

o in the Window image...

Result

...creates and sizes a new window item

Command-double-click in space...^{164}

o in the Window image...

Result

...creates a new window item and opens the Window Item Specification editor

Option-Command-double-click in space...^{164}

o in the Window image...

Result
...opens the Window Specification editor

Shift-Option-Command-click...¹⁵⁴

o in a Window image...

Result
...opens the Value window for the window's instance

o in a Window Item image...

Result
...opens the Value window for the window item's instance

Drag...¹⁵⁴

o in a Window Item image...

Result
...drags the item image to a new location with grid restriction

- on bottom right corner...

Result
...resizes the item image with grid restriction

Option-drag...¹⁵⁵

o in a Window Item image...

Result
...drags the item image to a new location without grid restriction

- on bottom right corner...

Result
...resizes the item image without grid restriction

Shift-drag...¹⁵⁵

o in a Window Item image...

Result
...restricts to vertical or horizontal movement based on initial drag

Option-Command-drag...¹⁵⁵

o in a Window image...

Result
...drags the window-edit image