General Information about the Manual

The OneVision manual consists of electronic text, and is similar to on-line manuals used by NEXTSTEP and other computer systems. The system is easy to use, but some knowledge about the capabilities of the help system of NEXTSTEP 3.x is useful for using it efficiently. A concise introduction is given below.

The following command from the main menu (shown in the upper-left corner of the monitor) activates the electronic manual:

From the help panel's index you can select the topic you want information about. The appropriate chapter will immediately appear in a new window.

If you want information about a feature of OneVision, simply hold down the F1 key (or both the Ctrl and Alt keys if you are using NeXT hardware). The mouse cursor will change its shape to a question mark. If you then click on any OneVision command or panel, help information about it will appear.

You can get further information about a subject by clicking on the link buttons (±> ;AboutTheManual.rtf;Marker;↵) displayed within the help text. These diamond-shaped icons represent links to related topics.
