Services - OneVision-Image

The Services menu contains commands for services provided by other applications.

Services are used for starting other applications and easily executing specific program commands. In OneVision-Image, for example, you can replace a selected image with a hard copy from your screen by using the command <Grab/Screen> from the services menu.

The collection of commands in the Services menu depends on the applications you are currently working with. Detailed information about this subject is available   in the NEXTSTEP User's Guide*.
