Registering

Atomic Mac is shareware. The registration fee is $24.99, allowing the use on a single computer. If you wish to run Atomic Mac on multiple computers, you must obtain a license for each system, or the appropriate site license.

Until you register, you'll only have access to information for some of the elements.

Site licenses are also available, allowing copies to be run on multiple computers at a single location (for example, a school or university, or office). Please contact Black Cat Systems for pricing and details about site licensing.

By registering your copy of Atomic Mac, you'll help support our efforts to develop new versions with additional information. When you register, you'll be entitled to use all new releases and updates to Atomic Mac released over the next year, free of charge.
