

Internet Resources Database Reader & Notebook (Shareware version)

This Readme Document contains the most current information on how to use the IRD Reader and Notebook program to build and maintain an Internet Resources Database that best suits your information needs.

The Shareware version contains only a very small subset of the information available for your Internet Resources Database.

The datafiles coming with the shareware version are primarily for demonstration of the functionality of this program and are by no means comprehensive guides to the Internet.

You easily get the most current version of the IRD database files by visiting the IRD Home Page on the World Wide Web at: <http://www.mbmarktcons.com/mbmarkt/irdhome.htm> or by connecting to one of the other download sites for the Internet Resources Database.

Current "download sites" for the Internet Resources Database:

Internet: WWW: <http://www.mbmarktcons.com/mbmarkt/irdhome.htm>
 FTP: <ftp://ftp.mbmarktcons.com/pub/mbmarkt/ird/>
 FTP: <ftp://uni-stuttgart.de/pub/comm/ird> (Nov. 95)
 FTP : <ftp://ird.crystalball.com:2521/ird>

Ask your Internet access provider to mirror this files for you.

Online Services:

CompuServe: Current program version and "toplevel" datafiles.

BBS: Check your favorite BBS for the *.IRD files or ask your SysOp

With IRD you have:

- The most comprehensive guide to the information available on the Internet right on your PC.
