MagIndex is a Magazine Data base program. Designed to keep track of magazine, bulletins, etc. so you can utilize the power of the computer to quickly locate a source of information.

By indexing your magazines you will find yourself saving hours of having to manually search each and every issue you own for a particular article.

With the included Notes function, you can use your scanner to actually read in the text of the article. This will save you even more time in the future, and space on your bookshelf.

The Demo version you have obtained needs only a personalized code key to unlock the program. Without the code key ALL FUNCTIONS WORK, except you will be restricted to saving only the first 20 records.

And now, The installation instructions...
