How To Play

Choose numbers from rows.

An arrow to the left of the grid shows the current row.

You must choose a number that is in the current row.

To choose a number, double-click on it (or use the arrow keys and the 'Enter' key.)

The computer chooses numbers from columns.

Try to get the higher numbers while leaving the lower numbers for the computer.

To win, score more points than the computer.

The game is over when it is the computer's turn and there are no more numbers in the column. The background picture will be fully displayed only if you win the game (by getting the highest score.)

The shareware version has a nag dialog before every game and only five game backgrounds (Egypt, Niagra Falls, Tiger, Space Shuttle and a female model.) Registered versions ($15.95) come with 15 new backgrounds and no nag dialogs.

To play a game using a picture of the female model featured in the adult game: double-click the MAXIT icon on the dialog box that appears before every game.
