A/UX Software Update Service

Overview

The A/UX® operating system can provide a powerful, interactive working environment for you and your company. To enhance that environment, Apple wants to ensure that you get the updates you need to keep your system working optimally--now and in the future.

The A/UX Software Update Service provides a convenient way for you to receive new versions of A/UX software and related documentation as soon as they are released by Apple. For an annual fee, the A/UX Software Update Service provides all software updates released within a one-year period. You may renew the service for additional one-year periods.

Updates provide product enhancements, system revisions, and all the necessary documentation, including a description of new features and installation procedures. A/UX updates may be used only on Apple® Macintosh® personal computers that have been licensed to use A/UX.

A/UX Software Update Service

Features and Benefits	Features	Benefits
	· Convenient way to receive updates	· Gives you an easy, accurate way to budget for your A/UX updates. All updates released within a one-year period will be shipped automatically to the address you specify on the order form.
	· Complete software updates with full documentation	· In addition to the new software release, you will also receive documentation that describes enhancements and explains how to update your system.
Product Details	The most popular medium used for A/UX updates is CD-ROM. Updates are also available on a 40-megabyte	streaming tape and on 800K floppy disks (each update may contain as many as 65 floppy disks).
Ordering Information	To order the A/UX Software Update Service, you must complete a Support Services order form. For more	information and and order form, contact your authorized Apple A/UX reseller or your Apple sales representative.