territory Sales Plan SmartMaster

The Territory Sales Plan SmartMaster projects a bottom-up forecast or plan. Territory managers use this template to communicate local sales plans to corporate headquarters. It is designed to be used at the beginning of a sales year.

The SmartMaster is broken down so that the user can enter forecasted sales for three categories:

Established customers

New customers

A customer that has made their first purchase in the past year.

Prospective customers

A customer that has not yet purchased from your company.

territory Sales Plan SmartMaster

1. Enter the forecasted and actual sales information for established and new customers.
2. Under prospective customers, enter the following:
 - Close Quarter
The quarter in which you expect the account to be closed.
 - Probability
The expected probability of closing the account.
 - Annual Potential
The annual potential sales.

Tips

The expected value of prospective customers is calculated by multiplying the annual potential probability of closing the account by the remaining number of quarters in the year, so choose values carefully.

For example, if the annual potential sales to ABC Company are $20,000 with a 70% probability in the second quarter, the expected value of ABC is $10,500. The associated formula is detailed below.

`=IF(20000,@ROUND(+20000*.70*((5-2)/4),0),"") = 10500`
