

Scroll around your country to find a good place for your capital city. The framed area around a potential site tells you what sort of terrain will be immediately available for use if you found your city there.

If you are curious about a potential city site, click on the tile. A pop-up window will inform you of the resources immediately available at that site.

You can still cancel your selection after considering this resource report.