

note this!

Here are some quotes from history to get you through 'that' argument situation. Whether your debating the pro's and con's of the MacOS or your boss wants to fire you - quote one of these to suit any day. If all else fails just add them to your sig. for email.

Intelligence is not all that important in the exercise of power and is often, in point of fact, useless.

Henry A. Kissinger, (1975)

All you need in this life is ignorance and confidence, and then success is sure.

Mark Twain, (1878)

When all else fails read the instructions.

Agnus Allen, (1979)

When you soar like an eagle, you attract the hunters.

Milton S. Gould, (1967)

There are one hundred men seeking security to one able man who is willing to risk his fortune.

J Paul Getty, (1961)

There is no such thing as a "hard sell" or a "soft sell".

There is only a "smart sell" or a "stupid sell".

Never underestimate the power of the irate customer.

Joel E. Ross and Michael J. Kami, (1973)

Those who tell you it's tough at the top have never been at the bottom.

Joe Harvey, (1988)

In this world second thoughts, it seems, are best.

Euripides, (428)

You cannot fight against the future. Time is on our side.
William E. Gladstone, (1866)

Better three hours too soon than a minute too late.
William Shakespeare.

Next week there can't be any crisis. My schedule is already full.
Henry A. Kissinger, (1973)

How often misused words generate misleading thoughts.
Herbert Spencer, (1892)

The trouble with most of us is that we stop trying in trying times.
Denis Waitley, (1985)
