

Once the location of the application which you intend to use to print the document is known, FLIGHTCHECK® will then be able to give you more exact details about the entire job and its print-related elements.