The "Printer Marks Offset" can only be determined if the location of your application is known.