A "mismatched" color is a color which is defined in a placed EPSF with different CMYK values than the same color defined in the application's color palette.