

The image is nested, in other words, it's inside another image. This can add to processing time, but clearly makes it difficult to get at if it needs editing.