The column margin settings for $ had to be corrected, due to a problem such as a column of negative width, a column extending beyond the edge of the paper, or an overlap between the left and right columns.   This can happen if the paper width changed since you set the margins.   You will probably need to make further corrections.